

BC Mandatory Vaccine Registry

Without any public or legislative consultation, BC Health Minister Adrian Dix has imposed a coercive mandatory vaccine registry that violates medical privacy and may result in discrimination against children. Vaccine risk aware parents, and their children, are now required to attend a mandatory 'vaccine education' session. Hefty penalties, including fines and imprisonment, are threatened for non-compliance.

The following is an excerpt from Vaccine Choice Canada's document, "British Columbia - An Assessment of New Mandatory Reporting Regulations."

These three mandatory requirements are being imposed despite the fact that public health officials already have access to everyone's medical records in the province and thus already know which children are in compliance with the provincial vaccine schedule and those who are not.

Furthermore, introducing the threat of large fines and/or imprisonment for non-compliance with administrative requirements of reporting vaccination status, submitting written statements on reasons for not vaccinating, as well as attending mandatory information sessions and meetings with a health official is especially draconian.

These new regulations make it increasingly challenging for BC citizens to exercise their legal right to medical decision-making and protecting the privacy of their medical records. As well, there is the real potential to undermine the medical ethic of informed consent, thus threatening our most basic liberties. Any efforts to impose vaccine products by coercion alters the relationship between a government and its citizens and undermines trust in both government and the medical profession.

Minister Dix's goal is 95% compliance to liability-free vaccines, even though no vaccine on BC's childhood vaccination schedule has undergone safety testing against a neutral placebo. Many vaccines, such as multi-dose flu shots, contain neurotoxic ingredients including aluminum and mercury.

Minister Dix claims that vaccines are safe and that vaccine hesitant parents are misinformed. Minister Dix also encourages minors to make their own vaccine decisions, bypassing parental knowledge and consent. Politicians and unelected Public Health officials are not being truthful when they claim that children MUST be vaccinated for school attendance. All vaccines in Canada are voluntary.
